Investing in environmentally sustainable agriculture and appropriate crop and livestock technology promotes food security and poverty eradication.